ONE MILLION BITS HORDE is a new mature indie studio from Brazil and US, with members world wide. Our team is formed by veteran developers with many years in game dev, where we worked together in different titles, with previous experience in strategy games, RPG, life sim, online and more. There are no secret words or formal “fancy” ways to describe what we want to do: we believe in great and fun games that players can keep playing, forever, as long as they want, in worlds that can change and are alive. That’s what we believe it will make our games more unique and more fun. After releasing Spirit of the Island, we’ve spent 10 months prototyping and creating internal tools, making lots of research in the game industry. We want to be very strong in Life Sim RPG games (mixing other genres, like crafting, town building, survival and some others), stylized and/or realistic, where players can keep playing, receiving content updates and much more. And our community is part of what we will become.
